We're having a great week at the foot of Petit Jean Mountain on the banks of the Arkansas River in the one and only Morrilton, Arkansas! I am so very thankful for life, good health, my family, friends, and especially my name and place in Christ's kingdom, His church. We are the church; all who believe in Jesus as God's Son, have repented of our sins, confessed Him, and put Christ on in baptism. The Lord Himself adds to His church (Acts 2:47) those who are saved by grace through faith. The church belongs to Christ. We can look in the Bible (Romans 16:16) and find that congregations of the Lord's church are called "churches of Christ." We do not choose this name by vote, because it sounds good, or because this name suits us. In Acts 11:26 we find the name "Christian" in reference to those who follow Christ Jesus. King Agrippa used the name "Christian" when he was almost persuaded to become one (Acts 26:28). Simon Peter wrote to us about suffering as a Christian in 1 Peter 4:16. I have often thought about the various names that people use when it comes to religion and wondered why people couldn't just be Christians. I realize why a Hindu calls himself a "Hindu" or a Buddhist calls himself a "Buddhist" or Islamist calls himself a Muslim or someone who will not believe in God calls himself an atheist. I don't fully understand why people who believe in Jesus Christ as God's Son and claim to follow His teachings in the New Testament call themselves any other name but "Christian." Not too long ago I spoke with a person and asked him if and where he went to church. I realize that "going to church" is not the correct way to word this question, but in the world today, people understand what I mean. He answered, "Yes, I am a _____" and went on to talk about the denominational church he was a part of. He asked me about my church affiliation. I stated that I am a Christian and a member of the church of Christ that meets on Harding Street in Morrilton. After my answer his immediate response was "Well, I am a Christian too. I'm a _____ Christian." My next statement was, "If we believe in Jesus and follow His words, shouldn't we call ourselves what the Bible calls us: "Christians?" nothing before the word and nothing after the word. I am not a "church of Christ Christian" or an anything else Christian. I am a Christian (simply and only) and a member of the church that belongs to Christ. This church exists all around the world and regularly meets together for fellowship, Bible study, worship, and service here, there, and everywhere in small congregations made up of two or three Christians and in large congregations, some into the hundreds of thousands. Yes, I am so very thankful to be a Christian, a member of God's family, the church that Jesus established, purchased, provides for, and is coming from heaven to receive to Himself (John 14:1-6). I hope you can read this, think about who you are and what the Bible says, understand what I am trying to say, and make the changes you need to make to be what you need to be. Now this is a good question to ask ourselves; "Is the person I am, the person I need to be?" Be a Christian today and always. I can help you. MB
