Good morning and welcome to Harding Street Church of Christ! The world around us is in full swing for the holidays, and if you're like me you can't be more excited. I love driving through town in this cold weather, with Christmas music playing, looking at all the lights and decorations. To me the whole world just seems a little happier around this time of year.

In my readings this week the verse that stood out to me is Matthew 6:21. This verse gives us insight into the relationship between our priorities and our hearts: “For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.” This verse comes from Jesus' Sermon on the Mount, where he challenges us to consider the true value of the things we pursue. The idea of “treasure” means much more than just money or possessions. It refers to whatever we hold most dear, whatever we invest our time, energy, and focus in. Jesus is teaching us that our hearts naturally follow what we treasure. The things we treasure reveal what we value most. Are we placing our treasure in earthly things that are temporary and can fade away, like wealth, status, or material possessions? Or are we investing in eternal things that will never rust or decay. Are we placing our treasure in our relationship with God, serving others, and the eternal hope we have in Christ? Jesus warns that if we store up treasures on earth, we risk becoming enslaved to them. The pursuit of wealth, comfort, and success can quickly become an obsession that consumes our hearts and minds, leading us away from God's kingdom. On the other hand, when our treasure is stored in heaven, our hearts are drawn toward eternal values, values that align with God's will and purpose in our lives.

When we read this verse we have to ask ourselves, “What do I treasure most? What occupies my thoughts, my time, and my resources?” Are we focusing on the fleeting things of this world, or the eternal promises of God? Living in a consumer-driven society can make it easy to focus on acquiring more, but Jesus calls us to a higher standard. He invites us to lay up treasures in heaven, where our hearts can be anchored in His love, grace, and purpose. As you go about your week, let this verse challenge you to examine where you are placing your treasure. May your heart be drawn to the eternal, unshakable treasures of God's kingdom, and may you find joy in investing in what truly matters.
