Good morning and welcome to Harding Street Church of Christ! We are so glad you chose to worship with us in spirit and in truth. We have made it to the first Sunday of 2025! I hope you are looking forward to this new year and the new possibilities that come with it. Let's all work together this year to grow the Lord's Church both physically and spiritually.

Following the theme of new beginnings that comes with the new year, the beginning verse of the Bible is such a profound verse, both in its simplicity and in its power. Genesis 1:1, "In the beginning, God created the heavens and the earth." It sets the foundation for everything we believe about God, creation, and our purpose in life. With just ten words in English, this verse declares the eternal existence of God and His creative authority over the universe. It reminds us that God existed before the beginning of time. He is not bound by time or space as we understand them. As the eternal Creator, God is the source of all life and the sustainer of everything that exists. This truth calls us to stand in awe of His majesty and to trust in His unchanging nature. In proclaiming God as the creator of "the heavens and the earth," it reminds us that God encompasses everything in existence. The beauty, order, and complexity of creation testify to His wisdom and power. Every sunrise, every star, and every living being points to the greatness of our Creator. The universe we live in is not the result of random chance. It is the product of a deliberate act of creation by a purposeful God. This means that your life, too, is not an accident. You were created intentionally in the image of God, with a purpose that only you can fulfill.

As we reflect on the simplicity and power of Genesis 1:1, let it inspire us to worship our Creator with reverence and gratitude. Let it also remind us of our unique role in His story: to glorify Him and reflect His image to the world. This week, take a moment to step outside and marvel at the world around you. Allow the vastness of the heavens and the earth draw your heart closer to God who spoke it all into existence. As we take time to reflect on the awesome power of our God and Creator, let us remember the words of Psalm 19:1, "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the sky above proclaims his handiwork." Let us worship the Creator who, in the beginning, made all things and continues to hold all things together by His power.
